

Floods, droughts, and wildfire risk in Europe

In one of the most urbanized regions in the world, climate change is creating new challenges for European cities. This infographic highlights how Northern Europe faces greater flooding risks, while Southern Europe will see more droughts and wild fires.

Urban areas affected by climate change

-  Areas potentially affected by coastal flooding
-  Areas in forest fire risk
-  Potential increase in the length of droughts

Source: European Environment Agency (2017 data)

